Chapter 8

Oculoplastics: Lids, Lacrimal System, and Removal of the Eye

KEY POINTS

- The oculoplastic surgical candidate may present from a trauma-induced injury or may be seeking a desired cosmetic result.
- Oculoplastic surgery may also be performed to improve visual function.
- Preoperative photography, measurements, and patient expectations are essential elements that contribute to overall surgical success.